

BRAKE RESISTORS

Certain AC drive applications may require more deceleration torque than can be provided by the standard AC drive. These applications typically include one or more of the following characteristics:

- Rapid deceleration
- High inertia loads
- Overhauling loads

Dynamic braking provides increased deceleration torque. AC drives with horsepower ratings of 20HP and less only require the addition of a braking resistor. AC drives with horsepower ratings 25HP and up require the addition of both a braking resistor and an externally mounted braking unit. For higher horsepower ratings, multiple resistors and braking units are required.

LINE REACTORS

KDR Optimized Drive Reactors applied to the line side of a PWM drive will greatly improve the overall performance of the drive. The additional circuit inductance will reduce AC voltage waveform line notching, DC bus overvoltage trips, inverter overvoltage, poor total power factor, and cross-talk. Guaranteed for the lifetime of the drive.
